Yet Another.

Only a pair of breeches,
Only a ragged coat,
Only some little trinkets,
Only a home-made boat.

Only a mangled base ball,
Placed in a drawer with care,
Only besides it some marbles;
A pocket knife too, was there.

Only an empty trundle bed,
Only a young voice gone,
Only a mother's bitter tears,
Only a heart forlorn.

Only a slender figure
Laid away in the family lot,
Only a little toy pistol
That busted when it was shot.
—Picanne.

A Query Answered.

A correspondent in the Sacramento Record-Union answers some questions propounded by another correspondent in this manner: Some bucolic idiot (no doubt from Isleton), wants to know if the Constable at Walnut Grove has the right to stop a game of chuck-lock or opium smoking and he himself deal stud horse poker while the Justice of the Peace bets at the game. Why bless your verdant gizzard, you are not acquainted with the classic burg of Walnut Grove. We can do anything; we are all officer's, or on officer's bonds, which is the same thing. What our Judge says is law, not of this place only, but the whole State, he having overruled the Supreme Court in several cases, and don't you know that while men are losing their money at chuck lock, or opium smoking, our Constable was winning nothing from them at his stud-horse poker table. Not only should our Constable close up all opposition games, but our Justice should punish them severely. My friend, whoever you are who makes such rash enquiries, get your life insured, take lessons from Mac or Sullivan, bring down a racehorse and stay with us awhile, and it will do your soul good.

An Arkansas Valedictory.

An Arkansas editor, upon retiring from the control of an influential journal, said: "We do not leave this community with any regret. We are glad to go. We have not received due patronage from this town, consequently we are pleased to throw up the journalistic sponge. It is the custom for editors to say that they part with their contemporaries with regret. We do not. We are devilish glad to quit. We have been branded as a thief, and it has been proved that we are a thief, consequently we have no regrets at parting. Those who owe us are expected to settle at their earliest convenience. Those whom we owe must wait."

Mr. Frank James, the gentleman now attracting National attention because of a misunderstanding with a railroad train, and who has been in the public mind more or less recently, announces that when his trial is over he shall make it his business to get even with certain editors who have misrepresented him. The Inter-Ocean would assure Mr. James that it has always held him in the highest regard, and considers him the most distinguished murderer unhung.—Inter-Ocean.

Clifton has five general merchanting establishments, one drug store and news depot, ten saloons, one brewery, one soda factory, six restaurants, three bakeries, one hotel, two meat markets, two barber shops, one shoemaker shop, an express office, telegraph office, postoffice, printing office, two doctors, three lawyers, two Justices of the Peace and an insurance, mine and real estate broker.—Clifton Clarion.

A man recently died in France who, according to his diary, consumed in the last fifty years 127,827 pints of wine, 109,556 glasses of absinthe, and 219,132 glasses of brandy, rum and other spirits. His daily allowance was seven pints of wine, six glasses of absinthe (before meals), and twelve small glasses of some kind of spirit. He boasted that he had never had a sick day, and lived to be seventy years old.

GOLDEN NUGGETS IN A CHICKEN.—While the Horton House cook was preparing some chickens for dinner, he discovered about ten dollars' worth of gold nuggets and four ounces of gravel in one of their crops. These fowls had been purchased from a farmer who brought them in from the country, but Mr. Hadley does not remember his name.—San Diego Sun.

High Speed on Railways.

To run a fast train, a clear, uninterrupted road is absolutely necessary; and the reason is not far to seek. To move a body from a state of rest to a velocity of sixty miles an hour or eighty-eight feet per second, an amount of work must be performed equivalent to lifting that body 121 feet. Now, it is apparent to the simplest capacity that it requires a pretty powerful engine to overcome the resistance of a train running at sixty miles an hour without every few miles putting on brakes to destroy this velocity, and then to lift it 121 feet again to attain speed; the resistance of the air, the friction of bearings on journals and of flanges against rails going on all the time. As a matter of fact, showing what severe work this is on an engine, the Zulu express, on the Great Western railway of England, which is the fastest train in the world, has been repeatedly carefully timed, and it is found that, though running over an almost level and straight road, it takes a distance of twenty-six to twenty-eight miles to attain its full speed—about fifty eight and one-half miles an hour.—Science.

Negroes are sometimes very careful not to say anything to injure the reputation of a neighbor. A gentleman stopped at a cabin where an old negro woman lived, and while waiting for one of the children to get a bucket of fresh water, entered into conversation with her in regard to crop prospects.

"I did hab fo' or five hogs," said the old woman, "but dey's dwindled down till I ain't got but one now."

"Somebody steal them?"

"I neber talks 'bout my neighbors, an' I doan like ter say what became ob de shoats. I neber makes mischief. I doesn't."

"Did the hogs die?"

"Da master died; but yer ain't agwine ter git me ter say nuthin' agin my neighbors. De man what libed up dar is dead now, an' I ain't agwine ter say nuthin' agin him. De hogs appeared away from beah while dat man was libin'; but I ain't agwine ter say nuthin' agin him."

"Do you think that he took them?"

"Mister, dat man's dead, an' I doan wanter say nuthin' agin him; but, lemme tell yer, while dat man was libin' he was a powerful stumbling block ter hogs."

Miners Inch.

A miner's inch of water is an ordinary measurement of water established in early days by the miners in different places. As accepted in some districts it is an amount of water discharged from an opening 1 inch square through a 2 inch plank, with a pressure of 6 inches above the opening. In some localities the pressure required is 9 inches from the center of the orifice, while in others the pressure is 7 above the orifice, the plank 3 inches thick and 1 inch on the outside circumference.

A mistress, who had just hired a new cook, made a tour of inspection after she had kept her a week, and found a policeman locked up in the pantry. "How did this man get here?" asked the lady, severely. "I'm sure I don't know," answered the girl; "he must have been left over by the old cook."

A Spanish proverb runs: "When a fly falls into a glass of liquor, a Spaniard throws away the whole contents of the glass, fly and all; a Frenchman takes out the fly and drinks the liquor; an Englishman swallows everything; a German swallows the fly only, throwing away the liquor."

An exchange says that "the Boston Herald kicks against the statue to be erected on the Common in honor of Harriet Martineau." It is difficult to see how a statue that is not yet built can be kicked against. But still, a Boston paper can do most anything.—Rochester Post Express.
